$5,000 hoped for from 'Hands'

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

There should be about 5000 people holding hands to form a chain around campus at 10:55 this morning.

It's "Hands Around SIU," an effort to raise $5,000 for the American Lung Association of Illinois. Each participant will be asked to contribute $1 or more.

The chain should last about five minutes, said Steve Serrot, graduate assistant for Mobilization of Volunteer Efforts. He said administration officials indicated teachers would be urged not to reprimand students for being late to class.

The idea began with Hands Across America, an event that attempted to link hand-holding people across the United States.

Serrot said fewer than 5,000 people will be needed to make the chain, but there are several places where the chain can expand if necessary.

"People can step in any place that's convenient for them," Serrot said.

At 10:55, the Marching

Salukis will play a song and two Saluki cross-country runners will run in opposite directions around the chain, indicating to people they should hold hands. About 15 Army ROTC members will walk around the chain with buckets to collect money.

After the ROTC members walk past, people can go to class, Serrot said.

The chain will go from the Old Main area to Quigley hall, to the west of Rehn Hall, go south and then west toward Greek Row, east along Thompson Point, around the Engineering and Technology building, along Lincoln Drive, then across the Highway 51 overpass, around Mae Smith, Neely, Schneider and Allen halls, and back across the bridge.

No sign-up is necessary, and all participants will receive a free button, Serrot said.

Shirts from the Respiratory Therapy Club will be sold for $5 in the Old Main area, Serrot said.

LaRouche followers face credit card fraud charges

LEESBURG, Va. (UPI) — Scores of law enforcement officials staged a pre-dawn raid on the offices of political radical Lyndon LaRouche Monday just hours before a Boston grand jury indicted 10 followers in a $1 million credit card fraud scheme.

State officials said a securities fraud also was involved in the raid of two two- and three-story office buildings in the old sleepy Southern city deep in the heart of Virginia's wealthy horse country.

LaRouche, 64, a radical presidential candidate who preaches that Queen Elizabeth runs an international drug smuggling ring, lives on a heavily fortified $1.3 million estate near Leesburg. His whereabouts were not immediately known, but a spokeswoman said it was believed he was in Loudoun County. Justice Department papers said LaRouche aides forged credit card forms for amounts ranging from $45 to $2,500 using Visa, Master Card or American Express numbers of people who subscribed to LaRouche magazines or contributed modestly to his campaign.

The money, said Justice Department spokesman Pat Korten, was used "to support the activities of the LaRouche empire."

But LaRouche aide Warren Hamerman said the raids coincide with a White House attempt "to maintain a cover-up on the extent of the spread of the deadly AIDS epidemic." Another said the action was "one of the biggest political dirty tricks in history" timed to discredit LaRouche candidates in the November election.

Although there have been numerous probes of the LaRouche operation around the country, the Boston grand jury returned the first federal indictments against 10 people, two corporations and three campaign committees connected with LaRouche in the nationwide credit card fraud scheme.

Four of the 10 indicted were arrested immediately in Virginia and Pennsylvania. The whereabouts of the others were not immediately known.

The indictments were handed down in Boston, culminating a 2-year-long investigation into a scheme involving 200,000 unauthorized credit charges totaling more than $1 million.

The U.S. Appeals Court in Boston in 1985 levied civil contempt fines of $17 million against LaRouche officials for ignoring a federal subpoena of its documents.

Local LaRouche chapters involved were in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago, Houston and Los Angeles.

Soviet sub sinks; accidental firing impossible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Soviet nuclear-powered submarine, armed with at least 16 nuclear-tipped missiles and crippled by fire and an explosion, sank in 18,000 feet of water in the Atlantic Ocean Monday, the Pentagon and other officials said.

A skeleton crew was removed before the sub sank, officials said.

Of immediate concern was what water pressures at 18,000 feet would do to the two nuclear reactors and liquid-fueled SSN-6 missiles, each of which carry two warheads, officials said. Soviet and U.S. officials ruled out the possibility of an accidental launch of the missiles.

The Soviet Union, which first notified the United States Saturday of the accident that killed three crewmen Friday, said there had been no radiation leakage. Pentagon officials said no leaks have been detected and that Navy P-3C Orion submarine-hunting planes and an ocean-going tug, the Powhatan, were in the vicinity of the sinking.

The last crewmen who were aboard the Yankee class sub as it was being towed slowly a Soviet merchant ship were taken off about 3 and a half hours before the boat went under at 3 a.m. 680 miles northeast of Bermuda, officials said. Seas were running at 12 to 15 feet at the time.

The 426-foot-long sub normally has a crew of 120. After the original explosion Friday, all except for a skeleton crew were removed when the battered boat was taken under tow.

Pentagon officials ruled out a possibility the Soviets scuttled the sub.

According to Pentagon spokesmen, when an Orion flew over the submarine at 11:20 a.m. only a few crewmen were seen aboard.

British news reports say Israel stockpiling bombs

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The government refused comment Monday on what it called a "sensational" British news report that Israel has built and stockpiled between 100 and 200 atomic bombs. Instead, Prime Minister Shimon Peres reiterated the oft-stated policy statement that Israel will not be the first country to put nuclear weapons into the Middle East — apparently referring to nuclear-equipped U.S. and Soviet naval forces in the region.

Ambassador nominee pledges apartheid fight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's nominee for ambassador to South Africa told a Senate confirmation hearing Monday he will do all he can to urge Pretoria to end its policy of racial separation. Edward Perkins, 58, a black and a career diplomat now serving as ambassador to Liberia, appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to discuss how he would carry out a new policy toward South Africa that Congress forced upon the White House.

U.S., S. Africa planning conciliatory meeting

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The United States and South Africa plan a high-level meeting in a bid to patch up relations soured by new U.S. sanctions approved by Congress over President Reagan's veto, a newspaper said Monday. The pro-government Beeld newspaper said Foreign Minister Roelof "Pik" Botha will meet Chester Crocker, assistant secretary of state for African affairs. Quoting unnamed government sources, the newspaper said no date or location for the meeting has yet been agreed on but it is likely to take place soon after the Iceland summit this weekend between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

French hostages blame homeland for captivity

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Three French hostages, speaking on a 28-minute videotape released Monday by the pro-Iranian Islamic Jihad organization, bitterly blamed the French government for their prolonged captivity. The mysterious Islamic Jihad sent the videotape to a Western news agency in Beirut, along with an accompanying statement warning that France's "woes" will end only when it stops following U.S. policy in the Middle East.

Israeli airstrike destroys ammunition depot

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli warplanes Monday bombed pro-Syrian Muslim militia bases in north Lebanon near the Syrian border, wounding three people and devastating an ammunition depot, Lebanese and Israeli reports said. Witnesses and security sources said eight Israeli warplanes carried out the raid, the first of its kind in the remote district of Akkar, about 100 miles north of Israel's border and about 10 miles northeast of the coastal city of Tripoli.

Pope urges recruitment drive for new priests

ARS, France (UPI) — Pope John Paul II Monday attacked one of the Roman Catholic Church's most serious crises — a severe shortage of candidates for the priesthood and the increasingly elderly makeup of church leaders. In Lyon, two foreigners — an Italian and a Swiss — were ordered expelled from France after they were arrested last week pasting up anti-pope posters, including one that said, "If the pope were pregnant, abortion would be a blessing."

Sakharov congratulates dissident on release

NEWTON, Mass. (UPI) — Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov and his wife, Yelena Bonner, sent a message of congratulations Monday to fellow dissident Yuri Orlov, who was released in the deal that freed reporter Nicholas Daniloff. "They know Orlov is out," Tatiana Yankelevich, Bonner's daughter, said after speaking with the pair by telephone. "My mother said 'Congratulations for Yuri.'"

Texas rep: crashed plane on CIA mission

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A civilian cargo plane that crashed at an Air Force base in Texas over the weekend, killing three crew members, was on a mission for the CIA, Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Texas, said Monday. Gonzalez, in remarks to the House, said the plane was at Kelly AFB picking up explosive materials destined for the Contra rebels in Nicaragua. He said such aid is not authorized because Congress has not given final approval for the $100 million requested by President Reagan for the rebels.

Acid rain effects subject of study

By Eric Oestmann
Student Writer

A forestry professor thinks acid rain affects the Shawnee National Forest less than forests in southern Ohio and southern Indiana.

Charles Myers said the air is purer in the Shawnee Forest because there are not as many sources of pollution, such as chemical plants, as there are farther east.

Myers is one of four professors in a $351,000 study on how acid rain affects the growth of oak and hickory forests.

The grant was given to SIUC and Butler University in Indianapolis by the U.S. Forest Service's Northeastern Forest Experiment Station. Myers said the study began Oct. 1 and will continue for about five years.

Myers pointed out that it is better to talk of atmospheric deposition rather than acid rain because there are dry forms, such as dust and automotive exhaust, which are not rain deposits. Myers said acid rain is the common name and atmospheric deposition is the scientific term.

According to a memo sent to the forestry department, the forests to be studied are in the southern parts of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

Myers said tree samples will be taken from sites close to and far away from the sources of pollution.

Myers mentioned that one problem the study faces is the fact that, "All kinds of things can affect tree growth, such as drought, insects, disease, competition with other trees and tree site conditions."

Myers said as the study moves from sites in Ohio, through Indiana to Illinois, the number of trees affected by acid rain will decline.

The variables to be measured, according to Myers, will be the soil acidity, tree growth and tree cores. The later involves counting the number of rings inside the tree.

The other faculty members in the study are James Fralish, W.C. Ashby and R.N. Guillemette.

Rehnquist opens high court term

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court opened its 1986-87 term Monday, the first under Chief Justice William Rehnquist, by letting stand a decision in a multi-million dollar patent infringement suit and agreeing to rule on the constitutionality of an Indiana law regulating corporate mergers.

The court, returning to the bench on the traditional first Monday in October, opened the term with Rehnquist, the 16th chief justice, taking his seat at the center of the court and new Associate Justice Antonin Scalia moving to his far left as the most junior justice.

THE SUPREME COURT let stand an appeals court ruling that Eastman Kodak Co. infringed on patents held by Polaroid Corp. in a case that forced Kodak out of the multimillion dollar instant photography business.

The appeals court upheld lower court rulings that Kodak infringed on patents held by Polaroid that are necessary to produce instant film and cameras and ordered Kodak to stop.

As a result of the rulings, Rochester, N.Y.-based Kodak was forced out of the instant photography business.

THE COURT agreed to decide whether an Indiana law aimed at protecting companies from hostile takeovers by out-of-state businesses is constitutional.

The justices will hear arguments this term in an appeal by the CTS Corp., of Elkhart, Ind., and the state of Indiana, challenging a 7th U.S.

Circuit Court of Appeals ruling striking down the 1986 control share acquisitions statute.

The case involves Dynamics Corp. of America, a New York company that last March made a hostile tender offer for 1 million shares of CTS that would have brought its holdings to 27.5 percent.

THE OFFER prompted CTS to invoke the protections of the new Indiana law, which requires a majority of existing "disinterested shareholders" to grant voting rights to anyone acquiring controlling shares of an Indiana corporation within 50 days of the offer.

Dynamics Corp., frustrated by the 50-day waiting period imposed by the law, filed suit challenging its constitutionality.

Floating new ideas will buoy campus

IT WAS A NAVY OF A DIFFERENT SORT and all the sailors — and their clothes — were cut from a different cloth than the stereotypical salty dog. These modern mariners sported mostly Bermuda shorts with Hawaiian designs, faded T-shirts and life preservers.

Their vessels weren't forged in fire nor carved from the best oak. Most were corrugated paper bound together by duct tape. Their captains fought against sinking, not each other.

The first America's International Cardboard Cup Challenge, offspring of the annual Carbondale Cardboard Boat Regatta, weighed anchor Saturday at the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds, proving that innovation and ingenuity at SIU go beyond devising ways to toss back a beer.

It seems odd, however, that the idea didn't float nationally long before now.

RICHARD ARCHER, AN ASSISTANT PROFESSOR of art, got the idea to have his students design and build cardboard boats at a time when students measured personal development by rioting downtown.

The students tested their contraptions in Campus Lake. A group of curious onlookers grew into a crowd in ensuing years. The test turned into a contest a dozen years ago.

Archer's philosophy is that students should be taught to think, which in turn will help them build self-confidence.

Sounds really radical doesn't it?

For as much as the idea has to offer, especially the ingenuity part, you'd think the University would've latched on to the regatta's salubrious as a new student recruitment tool. It's no secret the administration has been looking for such a tool to take the gloss off the University's image as a party school.

CABLE NEWS NETWORK BEAT THE ADMINISTRATION to it Saturday. It brought the Du Quoin event to a national audience.

Of course, you can't sell a University on a cardboard boat race alone. But the event shows that there isn't any more to this party-school hull than at any other university. We've got more productive, cerebral pursuits too.

For instance, there's the medical and technical careers schools, two of the Midwest's most notable programs. The College of Education is first-rate — the University started out as a teacher's college — with over 110 years of experience at instructing future instructors.

THE UNIVERSITY'S LIST OF KUDOS is long, minus the regatta. Administrative recognition of this fact could send the University sailing toward greater goals and away from the insinuation that we are but a ship of fools.

Getting athletes through bribery is ridiculous

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

IN THE BUSINESS of big time college sports, winning is everything. The NCAA has thrown more and more universities under a spotlight of critical scrutiny, often followed by harsh penalties.

All coaches say it takes money to win. If a team loses, however, contributions become scarce. This threatens coaches' careers because they get the blame and the axe if they keep losing.

Some coaches resort to cheating. More universities are revealing coaches — either personally or through boosters — using bribery and salary to attract top high school athletes into the program.

Collegiate football can generate $10 million a year at some schools, and winning keeps the funds rolling in. The 18 football bowl games last season distributed $40 million to the participants and their conferences from television and gate receipts. Such immense rewards for winning encourage dirty pool to build a bowl-bound team.

AT TEXAS CHRISTIAN UNIVERSITY, a booster drove a recruit to a motel where lodging was provided until letter-of-intent day. Meanwhile, the youth received entertainment of meals and prostitutes. During his next four and a half years he got cash payments totalling $27,100. Another TCU Horned Frog received $49,025 and another $37,500.

TCU turned itself in to the NCAA and the self-revelation supposedly lessened the penalties. TCU lost bowl games for one year, TV revenue for two years and had a reduction in scholarships for two years.

In 1984 the Florida Gators were barred from bowl games for two years because of

Fulk 'dispelled' ugly rumors

We would like to respond to the letter by Randal Fulk, law student, published in the Sept. 24 D.E. The basis of his letter was to dispel suggestions that lawyers are "greedy parasites who prey upon the body politic."

To accomplish this, he proceeded through a series of calculations which ultimately showed that almost 2 percent of the lawyers in this country have souls.

We wish to express our sincere relief in finding out that so many good lawyers exist in America. You and your fellow law students must be extremely optimistic with regard to the future of your profession. Maybe 3 percent is an achievable goal!

To expand on this premise, we ask that you (the reader) sit back for a minute and dream about what might be. Imagine the day when almost 2 percent of all policemen actually serve and protect the public, almost 2 percent of all teachers make sure students can read and write, almost 2 percent of the armed services defend our country and its constitution, almost 2 percent of all physicians really care about their patients well-being, almost 2 percent of all politicians are truly honest, almost 2 percent of all ministers and priests believe in God, etc. Doesn't it take your breath away!

We do, however, realize that this is terribly idealistic, probably unattainable and represents a Utopian society at least. But what a goal to work toward! So thank you Mr. Fulk, not only for dispelling those ugly rumors about the law profession, but also for demonstrating a direction and standard which all individuals and groups can use as a guide toward creating a better, stronger nation. — Greg Pisel, Kevin Smith and Tom Wentland, Law Students.

Viewpoint

serious NCAA violations, including the coach's slush fund for spy-scouting.

THE REALITY HIT home in 1985, when SIU-C announced payments of $900 a month to basketball center Ken Perry. SIU-C lost Missouri Valley TV revenue and the opportunity to appear in post-season play for a year.

Some reports cite booster fanatics as the cause but totally legal supporters are taking the rap as well. In anticipation of future NCAA rules, the majority of booster clubs have agreed to fall under jurisdiction of athletics departments, directly exposing financial activities.

The perverted side of the bad apples gives all boosters a bad reputation. Former NCAA investigator Thomas Yeager reported athletes told him an alumnus had them dive in his swimming pool for $10 and $20 bills. Some of these inner-city kids couldn't even swim.

IF A KID SO desperate for dollars risks drowning, here lies a root of the problem. No matter how ethical a kid tries to be, if he never had a penny, he decides a college education would help and if he suddenly finds the way paved with gold, he'll attend "Big Bucks U." and remain bitterly loyal.

Ask any recruiting coach and he can relate tales of where "so-and-so," the school's biggest star, came from. Often, the inner-city kid hails from a place where safety is a gamble, not a defensive position in football. As he uses his 4.2, 40-yard speed to run from fights with knives and guns, he must return to the shelter of a run-down, roach-infested tenement house with little heat or fans and no screens on the windows.

IF THE NCAA treated each school equitably, a reciprocal relationship would occur. Winning wouldn't be everything if all schools shared TV revenues equally, and coaches would no longer need to resort to bribery to get the best kid to sign.

Because the NCAA prohibits student-athletes from holding jobs during the academic year, the ability to grant a stipend would create equality among athletes. The inner-city athlete would not have to do without or resort to accepting booster bucks. And if the NCAA would increase the legal financial assistance for needy athletes, not only would universities have an equal chance to get these kids to ink the letter of intent, but also the student-athlete would be more likely to attend the school of his choice rather than the sports job of choice.

Dancers illustrate history with long-forgotten dances

By Mary Wisniewski
Entertainment Editor

When Charles Blackman and his friends from South Eastern Illinois College decided to dance like Shakespeare did, they spent almost as much time in books as they did on the floor.

Now after spending long hours deciphering old country dances from Elizabethan and early American Colonial texts, Blackman and the rest of the Illinois Heritage Dancers are performing history lessons in dance at colleges and historical re-enactments all over Illinois.

The Illinois Heritage Dancers were among the many performers at last weekend's Chautauqua, held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Evergreen Park. The event was sponsored by Southern Illinois Arts and the Illinois Humanities Council and attempted to recapture the traveling cultural shows popular in early 20th century.

Blackman, a native of Johnsonville, said the eight-member dance troupe began in 1985 at Fort Massac State Park near Metropolis. A local historical society group was sponsoring a re-enactment at Fort Massac of life in colonial Southern Illinois.

Chautauqua performer Charles Blackman of the Illinois Dancers from Southeastern Illinois College

"We heard about it and thought it might be a good place to square dance," said Blackman. "But then we learned that people didn't square dance in the 1700s. They were doing something else."

Blackman said the group began researching the long-forgotten dances of Elizabethan England and colonial America. He said the group gathered recordings of period music and Heritage Dancer Barbara Poston researched and designed the group's 1750-1816 period costumes.

"We also tried to find out who were doing these dances," Blackman said. "The people camped at Fort Massac were not dancing the minuet. They were doing country dances," Blackman said. He added that modern square dances probably originated with the quadrilles and "contra" or contrary dances of colonial times.

Blackman said preserving and performing old country dances is a new idea. "I know we're breaking new ground," he said. "There are only six groups like this in the country."

Musical sings the story of Joseph

By Debra Keen-Cooper
Staff Writer

The Shryock Auditorium Celebrity Series continues Thursday with a touring production of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat."

The musical, based on the biblical story of Joseph and his coat of many colors, features a large cast, colorful costumes, pantomime and dancing.

"Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" is the first of four musicals co-written by English composers Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice. They also wrote "Jesus Christ Superstar,"

"Evita" and "Cats."

"Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" takes a modern look at the ancient biblical story. The plot follows Genesis 37:3 and is told completely through music.

Muriel McAuley, production manager of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," said during a telephone interview Monday that the play, written in the 1960s, was originally a 50 minute, one-act musical.

"Since the original version was so popular, Webber and Rice decided to lengthen it by adding more music and tried it on Broadway," McAuley said.

McAuley said director Randy Strawderman is using a Michael Jackson impersonator to portray the pharaoh, rather than Elvis Presley, who was used in the original version. Using a personality from present culture makes for a more up-to-date approach to the production, she said.

"Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday in Shryock Auditorium. Tickets are $12, $10.50 and $9.50 and are available from the Shryock Box Office.

Rush tickets for $5 are available to students with a valid I.D. from 7:30 p.m. until the show starts.

Rather on the job, 'on the mend'

NEW YORK (UPI) — CBS News anchor Dan Rather, recovering from a bizarre street attack over the weekend that put him in the hospital, was pronounced fit by his doctor to anchor the "CBS Evening News" Monday night.

"He's saying he's on the mend but is feeling pretty stiff at this point," CBS spokeswoman Ramona Dunn said. "But he's decided to do the news."

Rather was punched in the face and kicked in the back and kidney Saturday night by two well-dressed strangers while he walked to his apartment on posh Park Avenue. Before the men beat Rather, they asked, "Kenneth, what's the frequency?"

Rather was taken to Lenox Hill Hospital, where he was treated and released under the care of his doctor. On Monday he went to his doctor for tests, was pronounced "fine," and later met with the executive producer of "CBS Evening News" at his home to plan the night's broadcast.

Rather still planned to head to Iceland Wednesday to cover the summit meeting of President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Rather, 54, told police the attack occurred just after he left the Park Avenue apartment of longtime friend and associate David Buksbaum, a vice president of news coverage for CBS.

Rather, wearing jeans, striped shirt and glasses, was approached by a well-dressed man who asked, "Kenneth, what's the frequency?" Police said Rather told the man, "I think you have the wrong guy."

The man responded by slugging the anchorman in the face and knocking him to the pavement. Rather ran into the lobby of a Park Avenue apartment building but the man and an accomplice followed him.

They again asked, "What's the frequency?" and when Rather did not respond they knocked him down again and kicked him, police said.

Suspect linked to bombing of civil rights leader's home

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — A man associated with a white-supremacist church was charged Monday with staging four bombings, and divers searched Lake Coeur d'Alene for explosives that could be used as evidence, a prosecutor said.

Robert Elliot Pires, 22, was accused in three counts of detonating bombs at three downtown buildings Sept. 29. A fourth charge alleged Pires attempted to blow up the home of a human rights leader.

Kootenai County Prosecutor Glen Walker late Monday asked a judge for a warrant to arrest Pires. Walker said he did not know Pires's hometown but said the suspect was from Maryland.

A PORTION of Interstate 90 six miles east of Coeur d'Alene was closed Monday afternoon while divers searched Lake Coeur d'Alene for evidence in the four bombings, as well as a fifth blast in August at an auto-repair shop. No one was hurt in the explosions.

The highway links western Montana, northern Idaho and eastern Washington.

Officers searched the lake for a cache of explosives and bomb-manufacturing materials authorities believe were tossed into the water from a bridge, Walker said.

WALKER HAD little information about Pires, but an Aryan Nations spokeswoman said she was relieved he had been charged.

"That would be very good," church spokeswoman Betty Tate said. "He was here for a time; he wasn't interested in being a part of what we believe and know to be true.

"I'm very glad," she said. "He would not have been a good addition to the church, he's not interested in our philosophy."

Also Monday, Secret Service agents 30 miles to the west in Spokane, Wash., said they were counting thousands of dollars in counterfeit $20 bills found in a cave near the Kootenai County home of Aryan Nations Church security officer David Ross Dorr, 35.

DORR AND two associates of the church, Edward Hawley and his wife, Olive Hawley, were arrested Thursday after 40 officers raided Dorr's home to carry out a search warrant police say was obtained as part of the bombing investigation.

During Thursday's initial search, police said they found three machine guns, explosive powder similar to that used in the five bombings and 25 counterfeit $20 bills.

Summit may get whale meat menu

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) — If food is scarce at the hastily arranged superpower meeting this weekend, the host nation can always serve President Reagan some of the 1,000 tons of whale meat Washington forced Iceland to eat rather than export.

Iceland's controversial whaling season ended last week, but news of whale-hunting was swept off the local front pages by the announcement that Reagan will meet Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Reykjavik.

Word of the superpower meeting left the Icelandic government with immense logistical problems, such as accommodating and feeding some 3,000 visitors in the city of 90,000, the world's northernmost capital.

In an effort to help protect whales, the International Whaling Commission wants Iceland, a traditional whaling nation, to kill no more than 120 Fin and Sei whales each year.

Iceland has been exporting about 90 percent of its whale meat to Japan, but the United States threatened to cut off its lucrative fishing trade with Iceland unless Reykjavik cuts the exports to 50 percent of the kill.

This season, the Icelanders came close to the quota and harvested about 2,000 tons of whale meat. To avoid U.S. sanctions, the country is keeping 1,000 tons of the meat for domestic consumption.

When the excess whale meat began showing up on grocery shelves in August, storekeepers noted a tenfold increase in sales in a show of patriotism among strongly nationalist Icelanders. Local newspapers lately have been full of recipes for whale meat, which is likened by some to fishy-tasting beef.

"The Americans are welcome to the whale meat when they arrive," said one Icelandic official who requested anonymity.

The U.S. move against whaling has angered Icelanders, whose Viking forefathers settled the nearly barren island 1,000 years ago and who believe they know how to preserve maritime resources better than Washington does.

Classes to meet on Monday; no day off for Columbus Day

Students who have been expecting to have Columbus Day off shouldn't make plans for a three day weekend.

While area elementary and high schools and most banks will observe the Monday holiday, classes will be held as usual for SIU students, said Space Administrator Martin Will.

Will said his office has received about 50 calls asking if school will be held Monday. The only bank open will be the Bank of Carbondale.

Balloons away

Balloons fill the Friday morning air as children from the Child Development Lab relive an event they missed a week earlier, when they had planned to watch the local United Way launch its annual fund drive with the release of a truckload of helium-filled balloons. The children and their teachers missed the first launching because its time was incorrectly stated in the SIU Courier and the Daily Egyptian. After a letter from the disgruntled children was published in the DE, the United Way decided to let the kids launch some balloons themselves.

Chautauqua days nostalgic treat

A Review

By Debra Keen-Cooper
Staff Writer

Multiple doses of nostalgia greeted those who attended Chautauquas in Harrisburg and Carbondale over the past two weekends.

Reviving memories of earlier eras, performers allowed visitors to share a glass of lemonade with Eleanor Roosevelt in her sitting room, join a 6-year-old boy on a walk through the Depression years and listen to a humanistic look at slavery from Abraham Lincoln. The program also included songs from the Civil War, folk dancing and commentary by Mark Twain.

CALLED A success by organizers David Thomas, executive director of Southern Illinois Arts; and Frank Pettis, associate director of the Illinois Humanities Council, Chautauqua '86 entertained about a thousand under a big red and white checkered tent in Harrisburg on the grounds of the Saline County Historical Society and in Carbondale at Evergreen Park.

Pettis said in conjunction with the Chautauqua, about 2800 area school children were treated Wednesday, Thursday and Friday to a variety of events on campus.

"TAKING AREA school children to SIU was an idea that grew out of last year's Artrain," Thomas said. "We wanted to include the children in Chautauqua '86 to make them more appreciative of art."

The children gathered each morning in Shryock Auditorium where they were entertained with "Steamer to Stage," a production that takes a historical look at the development of opera, Thomas said. The show was performed by the SIU-C Marjorie Lawrence Opera Theater.

Later in the morning, Thomas said, small groups were taken to the SIU art department, where they were given a series of arts and crafts demonstrations, and to the University Museum for a tour of "The Nation Bearers: American Indian Art and Artists."

THE CHILDREN also saw excerpts from "Godspell," a McLeod musical production, which will open Friday, and an impersonation of Mark Twain by Loren Taylor, who performed at the Chautauqua.

Thomas said the events for school children on campus were possible through the Illinois State Board of Education and a grant from the Joyce Foundation.

Thomas said that the SIA and IHC decided to sponsor a revitalization of the Chautauqua because, "People are aware that Illinois history started in Southern Illinois and people who want to keep that history alive know you can't do it with books alone."

ALTHOUGH THE original Chautauquas focused more on current issues than history, Thomas said there were actors who portrayed Longfellow and Wordsworth. "There was a sense of historical culture," he added.

"We wanted people to know that Chautauqua is more than just a street name," Thomas said. "We thought we'd be sensational with the first program — get recognizable historical figures like Twain and Lincoln. Some of the issues they were talking about then — individual rights, labor issues, state rights — are important now."

Thomas said that Chautauqua '86 was a pilot for future Chautauquas that will include more contemporary lecturers, poets and performers.

Fraternity search ruling supported by high court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court let stand Monday a ruling that Ohio liquor control agents — one posing as an alumnus — illegally searched a fraternity house at the University of Cincinnati.

The court refused to hear an appeal by Ohio seeking review of a ruling by the state Supreme Court that found the search of the Pi Kappa Alpha house was illegal.

The case began Dec. 1, 1983, when two plainclothes agents from the State of Ohio Department of Liquor Control sought admittance to the fraternity house to investigate illegal sales of liquor.

One agent posed as a Pi Kappa Alpha alumnus and said he wished to look over the house on behalf of his brother who was interested in joining. The other agent said nothing. The two, who were taken on a guided tour of the building, noticed a soft drink vending machine that advertised the fact it contained beer. The agent purchased a beer for 50 cents and then left.

The agents returned the next day with a search warrant and the fraternity was later charged with sale of alcoholic beverages without a permit and other charges.

However, the trial court held the agents conducted an illegal search and ordered the evidence suppressed.

Team hustles over Eastern as ruggers earn 1st victory

By Peter Rechenberg
Staff Writer

The men's rugby club came home with its first victory of the season as they beat Eastern Illinois 15-9 in their second game of the Union Tournament held this weekend in Peoria.

The ruggers lost their first game 7-0 to the undergraduate team from the University of Illinois. Their third game, against Peoria, was cancelled because of sloppy field conditions. The Graduate team from U of I won the tournament by beating Illinois State.

Rugby club president, David Graham, said they should have beat the undergraduate team from U of I. "We had their ball in their end of the field for almost the whole game," Graham said. "We just couldn't score. We outplayed them everywhere except in the score. However, it was a moral victory for us."

Graham said he was happy with the game against Eastern Illinois, which was played on a very muddy field.

"We played together and everyone was hustling and making tackles," Graham said. "We also had very few penalties."

Graham said he had expected the team to come together a little earlier in the season. "We had a lack of motivation and a lack of experience," Graham said. "We also don't have a lot of depth."

Division II powerhouse Nichols State (5-0). Now the Bears must face Jackson State, Middle Tennessee, and Eastern Illinois before closing the season with SIU.

"Southwest Missouri has played well, but they've really been hit with injuries and they play a very demanding schedule," Dorr said.

Dorr said that no one in the Gateway, except Southwest Missouri, could be ruled out.

"Northern Iowa has to be the favorite, but everyone still has a chance," Dorr said. "Illinois State has played well, Eastern is playing well and Indiana State has played well. With one team undefeated and five teams with only one loss, things have pretty much still got to be decided."

Harriers finish 1st; Kelly paces team to home victory

By Peter Rechenberg
Staff Writer

"It's nice to get a win, but we really didn't run well," Saluki coach Bill Cornell said after his team won the Saluki Invitational with 37 points. Murray State was second with 56 points, followed by Harding College, Missouri and Illinois College.

The top finisher was Mike Leverone from Missouri with a time of 25:55.7. The Salukis Jobie Kelly took fourth place followed by teammates Billy Darling and David Lamont in sixth place.

Cornell was happy to see Kelly, Darling and Lamont finish as a group, but he wasn't happy with Lamont's performance.

"With Andy Pettigrew out,

Lamont should have won the race," Cornell said. "We got some good running from Darling and Kelly, but David Beauchem, Mike Rice and Lamont did not run well at all," Cornell said.

Andy Pettigrew the Salukis top runner did not compete Saturday. Cornell thinks Pettigrew is losing valuable training time.

Cornell said his top runners' times should have been under 26 minutes, but that Kelly had the best time at 27:06.8.

"All our runners had better times in the time trials we ran at the beginning of the year," Cornell said. "It was a hot and humid day, but that shouldn't have anything to do with it."

Cornell was very happy with Scott Gill's performance. Gill finished tenth with a time of 27:37.4.

"I'm ecstatic with Gill's performance," Cornell really gave our team a big boost, and I think he gained some confidence."

Indiana State no longer unbeaten in Gateway; UNI leads standings

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

Indiana State lost its unbeaten conference status this weekend, falling to Ball State 16-3 in a makeup conference game at the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis.

The matchup with non-conference Ball State was a makeup for the Sycamores, who were unable to schedule Gateway member Western Illinois for this season.

With the loss, Indiana State falls to 1-1, 2-3 overall, and is in the midst of a three-game slump in which the offense has been limited to nothing but field goals (for totals of nine, six and three points).

Northern Iowa, 1-0, 3-0-1, made it three straight with a 36-7 victory over Arkansas-Pine Bluff. UNI was led by Errol Peeples, who ran for two touchdowns and a game-high 99 yards.

UNI's defense came back to shut down APB after a game-opening drive for a touchdown and a 7-0 lead. UNI moved up to No. 8 in this week's NCAA I-AA poll with the win.

Illinois State moved into second place in Gateway action with a 17-7 win over Western Illinois.

The Redbirds, 2-1, 2-3, were led by free safety Jeff Smith, who intercepted three Leatherneck pass attempts to snare the Gateway's defensive player of the week award. Quarterback Pat Williams tossed two touchdown passes in his first collegiate start.

With the loss, WIU drops to 1-1, 3-2 overall.

Eastern Illinois, 1-1, 4-1, rolled to its fourth consecutive win this weekend, with a 40-15 thrashing of Liberty.

EIU All-America quarterback Sean Payton turned in a 25 of 46 passing performance for 333 yards and one touchdown while running for another score to land his third Gateway player of the week honors.

EIU moved up to No. 11 in this week's NCAA I-AA poll.

In Springfield, Mo., nationally ranked Division II

UNI No. 8 in NCAA 1-AA rankings opponent Nicholls State remained unbeaten at 5-0 by shutting out the Bears of Southwest Missouri, 31-0.

Playing in their first nonconference game of the year, SMSU was victimized by four NSU touchdown passes by Doug Hudson — one in each quarter — three of them to flanker Mark Carrier.

With the loss, SMSU falls to 1-3, 1-4 and has the GCAC's longest losing streak — four straight games.

In the GCAC's remaining game, SIU lost to Big Eight foe Kansas, 35-23.

Next weekend, two important games highlight the Gateway schedule. SIU will host Indiana State while Eastern Illinois will host Northern Iowa.

Gateway Standings

Our government says it wants a negotiated peace in Central America, but a leaked National Security Council memo bragged about having "effectively blocked" such efforts.

Our government says it has no plans to invade Central America, but a classified Presidential report warned Congress that an invasion is "an eventual option if other policy alternatives fail."

We, the American people must lead our Congress and the Administration to:

- 1) Show U.S. Commitment to peace and international law by ending all aid, both overt and covert, official and private, to the contras fighting to overthrow the government of Nicaragua.
- 2) Support the comprehensive and verifiable Contadora peace initiative proposed by Latin American nations themselves, rather than undermining it, as we have in the past.
- 3) Resume bilateral talks with Nicaragua, with a willingness to give Nicaragua a formal guarantee that further U.S. sponsored attacks against it will cease.

Spikers down Wildcats; Billikins next at home

By Wally Foreman
Staff Writer

The Salukis defeated the Kentucky Wildcats 15-13, 15-6 and 15-11 Sunday in Lexington, Ky., in a match Coach Debbie Hunter said showed good overall team improvement.

SIU-C improved their record to 10-6 on the year.

"Our defense allowed us to win so many points," Hunter said, "and all of our hitters did pretty well."

Hunter used only six players during the match, which saw Pat Nicholson lead the team with 16 kills and a .448 attack percentage. Nicholson was followed by Dorothy Buchanan with 12 kills and a .379 attack percentage and Teri Noble with 11 kills and a .273 attack percentage.

Sue Sinclair did all of the setting for the spikers during the match.

"If all of our hitters are effective, then we are competitive," Hunter said. "We need to be around .250 or better as a team to win." The spikers hit for a .269 attack percentage in the Kentucky match.

The volleyball team will play St. Louis University at 7 p.m.

today at Davies Gym. Earlier this season, the spikers defeated the Billikens three straight at St. Louis.

In today's matchup, Hunter plans to use everyone in order to give the younger players more game experience.

"The younger players need to be ready when called on," Hunter said.

She pointed out that the whole team needs to be patient, consistent and learn to recognize critical periods in the match. "We also need to learn to win in adverse situations," Hunter said.

The spikers' ability to adjust to different levels of competition also will be tested after playing the powerful Wildcats and then facing the weaker Billikins, Hunter said.

Staerk first in intramural Fall Classic

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

John Staerk ran Saturday's intramural Fall Classic cross country race in 22:39 to win the competition. The first woman to cross the line was Peggy Hill, who finished in 26:36.

Intramural coordinator Buddy Goldammer said that due to the low level of participation, the Fall Classic will be moved back to November next year and will be called the "Turkey Trot." He added that many potential intramural participants may have entered the Fireman's 10K Run, held the same day.

Soccer teams will finish the regular season of competition Oct. 12, and a playoff meeting is scheduled for the next day. The regular season for volleyball will end Oct. 19, said Goldammer.

A total of 54 teams qualified for playoff competition in 12-inch softball, said Goldammer. Playoffs began Saturday and will end Thursday. The championship games will be played Thursday starting at 4 p.m. on the fields near the Arena.

Floor hockey will open the season tonight with a total of 54 teams signed up for competition. Goldammer said that 54 is an all-time high, since 43 teams signed up last year.

Goldammer said that the number of teams has necessitated the scheduling of games on Friday and Sunday nights as well as the Saturday and Sunday afternoons of Halloween weekend.

"We give every sport a minimum of five regular-season games," said Goldammer. "If we didn't go to Friday and Sunday nights and Halloween weekend, each team would only get four games."

Flag football competition will start Oct. 12. Ninety teams signed up for flag football, including 12 Co-Rec teams. Only one all-women team signed up. That team later went Co-Rec.

In tennis singles competition, Jenny Yeow defeated Laurie Swanson to win the women's intermediate division.

Goldammer was excited about the fact that 90 people have signed up for racquetball singles competition. Last year only 54 people joined the sport.

Another individual sport that seems to be on the rise in popularity is tennis mixed doubles, which will have 24 participants compared to last year's total of 12.

The intramurals department will hold a bike race Saturday beginning at 9 a.m. The 10-mile

Polls were right about UNI

Dorr says Salukis not out of it yet

With Northern Iowa emerging from this week's gridiron action as the only Gateway team without a league loss, Saluki coach Ray Dorr thinks the media had UNI pegged "pretty close to home" in the preseason polls.

The Panthers were projected to win the 1986 Gateway football title.

Up for grabs in the Gateway this season is a first-ever automatic bid to the NCAA I-AA playoffs. UNI went to playoffs last season as an at-large team.

After tying Mankato State to open the season, UNI has stormed back with three convincing victories and is enjoying a No. 8 ranking in the NCAA I-AA poll.

"It looks like the media people had it pretty well figured out," Dorr said. "UNI can control their own destiny — they've got it in their hands but must still face a part of the season where all games are critical."

At 1-0, 3-0-1, UNI still has to play five conference games — at Eastern and Southern while playing host for Indiana State, Western Illinois and Illinois State to close the season.

UNI comes to Carbondale on Oct. 18 for SIU's homecoming. UNI coach Dale Murda said early in the season that the game could be one of the most important conference games of the season.

SIU has 0-1, 3-3 through six games and has the advantage, if any, of playing one more game than any of the other conference schools. Dorr added that the Salukis also must enter a critical stretch of scheduling, with five straight conference games, including two of the last three on the road.

"We still have the opportunity for a very successful season," Dorr said. "Like UNI, we control our own destiny."

With five straight wins in the remaining schedule (Indiana State, Northern Iowa, at Illinois State, at Southwest Missouri and Western Illinois), the Salukis could finish 5-1, 8-3 and couldn't do any worse than a tie for a share of the conference crown.

But Dorr insists he isn't looking that far along. "Indiana State is the only thing I'm worrying about right now."

Second-place Illinois State (2-1, 2-3) has the advantage of having three conference games behind them, but must play two of three remaining Gateway contests on the road. Eastern Illinois (1-1, 4-1) must still face Northern Iowa, then faces three conference games on the road.

Indiana State started with two wins, but has since lost three straight to stand at 1-1, 2-3. The Sycamores close the season in tough matchups with UNI and Eastern Illinois.

Western Illinois (1-1, 3-2) must still face UNI, SIU, Indiana State and a makeup conference game with Sam Houston.

Southwest Missouri started the season with a win over Illinois State, but has since dropped four consecutive games. And things aren't looking much better for the Bears, who (starting on Sept. 27) played a string of five nationally ranked football teams. The Bears lost to UNI 45-3, followed by a 31-0 loss to
